Make sure to switch off location tracking and search history settings for your Google account. This will stop Google from recording information about you, but only if you prefer it that way.Curious to know what information Google has on you? You can download your personal data from Google and look for yourself. If you've had enough of Google's overreach, you can always delete your Google account entirely. Google, google-maps, Hero Google Maps history We all search for plenty of wacky and one-off things in Google Maps, and despite what Google thinks we don't always want them sitting in our history forever. There are also plenty of times when we navigated somewhere that we'll never go back to, and there's no reason to have it saved in the app's history. Thankfully you can quickly remove specific searches and locations from Google Maps on your phone. You can even go a step further and turn off history altogether.Open Google Maps, swipe in from the left edge and tap Settings.Tap Maps history to see a scrolling list of every search you've made and destination.A box will pop up confirming the item you're about to delete, and you can tap Delete to confirm.To see more details about the event, tap Details instead.Going a step further, you can delete history from a date range by tapping the menu button at the very top of the screen and tapping Delete activity by.If you deleted a search or other general activity, it will no longer show up as a suggested entry when you go to make new searches in Maps. If you deleted a specific route or navigation item, it will no longer show up as a suggestion when getting directions to a location nearby. It's also worth noting that deleting that particular search or route has no bearing on the history items of previous identical searches or routes you may have made.How to automatically delete Google Maps location historyOpen Google Maps, swipe in from the left edge and tap Settings.Tap Maps history, tap the menu button in the top-right, and tap Keep activity for.If you choose either of the automatic deletion options, that history will be scrubbed on a daily basis as each activity point reaches those time limits.Tap Next and you'll receive confirmation that your preference has changed.How to pause Google Maps location historyYou can also pause Google Maps location history entirely, if you would prefer to stop the app from recording anything rather than automatically deleting over time.Open Google Maps, swipe in from the left edge and tap Your Timeline.Tap the menu button in the top-right corner, and tap Settings and privacy.Scroll down and tap on Location History is on.Tap the toggle switch to turn location history off.It's important to note that pausing location history does not mean that your phone (and Google) no longer knows where your phone is. Turning off location history does not turn off location services. It simply means that over the long term, Google Maps does not save that history. Whenever your phone allows an app to access your location, that app will hand the current location to the app regardless of whether your settings then let the app save the location in its history.Be sure to check out our roundup of the best Google Maps tips and tricks for more ways to get the most out of your favorite navigation app.Keep powered up with these accessoriesAUKEY 10,000mAh Power Bank with 18W USB-C and Quick Charge 3.0 (opens in new tab) ($30 at Amazon)Don't let your phone, or your friend's phone, die at the most crucial moment. However, it is really easy to clear your entire Google Maps History on iPhone and Android Phone. Clear Google Maps History It is normal for most Users to search for one time destinations on Google Maps and navigate to places that you are not likely to visit again. All these locations get stored in your Google Maps History and may even appear as suggested locations in Google Maps. Hence, you may want to clear Google Maps history, instead of allowing these one-time destinations to be sitting in your Google Maps History forever. Luckily, it is really easy to remove your entire Google Maps History and also remove individual locations from Google Maps on iPhone and Android Phone. 1. Clear Google Maps History on iPhone or iPad Follow the steps below to Remove Google Maps History on iPhone or iPad. 1. Open Google Maps > tap on Profile Icon located at top-right corner and select Settings in the drop-down menu. 2. On the Settings screen, scroll down and tap on Maps History located under "Account Settings" section. 3. On the next screen (myactivity.google.com), you will be able see your entire Google Maps History. You can either delete individual items, Filter Activities by date or clear your entire Google Maps history at once. To delete entire Google Maps history, type Maps in the Search field and press the Enter key. After search results are populated, tap on 3-dots icon and select Delete Results option in the drop-down menu. To delete individual items, tap on 3-dots icon located next to the item that you want to delete and select the Delete option in the drop-down menu. Filter By Date: Filter by Date option allows you to Filter Google Maps History by last 7 days, last 30 days or by custom date range. In the Filtered search results, you can delete items that you do not want to appear in your Google Maps History. 2. Clear Google Maps History on Android Phone The steps to Remove Google Maps History on Android Phone are almost the same as on iPhone. However, you can only delete locations history items one at a time on Android Devices. 1. Open Google Maps > tap on Profile Icon located at top-right corner and select Settings in the drop-down menu. 2. On the Settings screen, scroll down and tap on Maps History option. 3. On the next screen, you will see your entire Google Maps History. Tap on the X mark next to the items that you want to delete. As mentioned above, you can only delete individual items in Google Maps History on Android Phone.
